Introduction

- Currently, Mexico faces a severe problem in terms of violation of Human Rights, which has worsened for some time to date, due to bad actions and omissions on the part of the authorities.

Introduction

- The lack of medicines is an issue that has transcended over the last decades in the country.
- Frida Romay Hidalgo, head of the Health and Wellbeing area of the Zero Shortage Organization, mentions that 2021 was the year in which there was the largest shortage of medicines since 2017, as well as a doubling of the shortage in the last 2 years.

- According to figures from Cero Desabasto (2021), out-of-pocket spending increases by 40%, inequitable access to medicines; greater practice of self-medication; illegal trade of inputs; and increase in deaths due to diseases.

The population must demand respect for the human rights enshrined in the Constitution, including the right to health, and the government must prioritize it, as well as work on disease prevention to reduce deaths due to chronic degenerative diseases.

Catastrophic

The violation of the DH to health, through the shortage of medicines, will continue to generate a negative impact on the economy of families and health, increasing the saturation of hospitals and deaths due to lack of timely care.
